ESTABLISHED 1846. NEWPORT, R. I., MONDAY, MAY 20, 1912. PRICE TWO CENTS.

To serve exactly as we would wish to be served if in the customers' place.

That's the sort of store service we try each day to render. We're human, and many times fall short of our ideals, but each shortcoming is made a stepping stone to more efficient service for you.

We would rather make a friend for the store than a sale.

Speaking of Friends

There's no easier way in the world to win a heart than to relieve it of its trouble.

Housekeepers' troubles begin in the kitchen—with the range that fails, that keeps the coal bin empty. Is yours that sort?

Crawford Ranges

Never fail. They're so easy to regulate, so economical to operate—less than a hod is all it asks to do a family's whole baking day's work. Always ready to do your bidding whether early at morn or late at night. Faithful and reliable, it makes fast friendship wherever it goes.

Does Spring mean a range change for you?

AT PEACE WITH GOD AND WORLD.

Richeson Says He Has Reconciled Himself to Fate.

Condemned Man's Brother Decides Not to Visit the Prisoner.

BOSTON, May 20.—When Clarence V. T. Richeson, the slayer of Miss Avis Linnell, reflected that he probably had less than 12 hours to live, he expressed a desire this afternoon to see his brother, Douglas Richeson of Chicago, who is in the city. The former clergyman told his spiritual adviser, Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, that he would not urge his brother to call if the latter thought he could not undergo the ordeal and would break down, but would be pleased to see him. The prisoner said that so far as he was concerned he could meet his brother without fear of collapsing. He had reconciled himself to his fate, he added, and felt that he was at peace with God and the world.

Richeson's brother decided not to visit the state prison, but will remain here until the body leaves for Virginia.

The condemned man slept soundly for four hours this morning, after being awake nearly all night. He was calm and even cheerful at times, occasionally singing a hymn or repeating his favorite Scriptural passages.

Rev. Herbert W. Stebbins, the prison chaplain, was with Richeson until 9 a. m., when he awoke. Rev. Dr. Johnson stayed in the death chamber until afternoon, arranging to return again at night and comfort the prisoner in his last moments.

Richeson has little appetite and remained resting on his cot during the forenoon.

Warden Benjamin F. Bridges, deputy Warden Michael J. Murphy and Rev. Father J. J. Murphy, Roman Catholic chaplain engaged in prison work, were among those who called to see the condemned man. Father Murphy asked Richeson how he felt, and urged him to make his final peace with God.

The former minister spent much of his time today in prayer and in reading his Bible.

"I will be ready when you want me, warden," he said to General Bridges late last night, when that official paid him a brief visit. "Do not worry, I shall not break down."

Faithful to his promise, Richeson, in his general bearing and in his conversation with his spiritual advisers, who have never left him alone for a moment during these last few days, bore up well through his last Sunday on earth. He was even cheerful as he sang some favorite hymns with Chaplain Herbert W. Stebbins until a late hour last night, several times repeating his favorite selection "Sometime we'll understand." Then he would read from the Psalms and his expositions of the lessons were referred to by the chaplain as wonderfully eloquent and learned.

It was not until daylight this morning that Richeson fell into a fitful sleep. He had talked and sung until his weary mind and weakened system could withstand the call of sleep no longer. Realizing that his hours were so few in number, the condemned man openly declared that he did not want to sleep. "I have so little time to live and have so much to say that I want to talk, talk, talk," he said.

No relatives of the former minister will console with him in his last hours or pay him a farewell visit. His aged father in Virginia is too feeble to stand the journey and the strain. His sister in New York state does not wish to have her last thought of her brother associated with a death cell. His brother, Douglas Richeson of Chicago, although in the city today declared last night that he would not go to the prison, but would remain until after the execution to see to the disposition of the remains.

Following the execution the medical examiner of the county, Dr. George B. Magrath, will perform an autopsy in accordance to the demands of the law, notwithstanding the fact that the family have sent word to the counsel for the condemned man that they would not allow it. The law leaves no alternative, although the post mortem examination may be as perfunctory or as thorough as the medical examiner wills.

Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, the man's spiritual adviser, and his counsel, William A. Morse will probably accompany the body to Virginia, where it will be buried beside that of the young man's mother on Richeson mountain in Amherst Court House.

The disposition of Richeson's effects has already been provided for in consultations between the prisoner and his counsel, and through documents left with his counsel.

DROP OF NEARLY 40 DEGREES.

Cold Northeast Storm Prevails on New England Coast.

BOSTON, May 20.—The inconsistency of the spring of 1912 in New England was again manifest today, when yesterday's promise of seasonable conditions was blown South again by a cold, northeast rainstorm in Massachusetts and Rhode Island and snow in Maine. The southerly breeze, which brought almost sultry conditions yesterday, began to work around to the opposite side of the compass during the evening and at dawn today the wind was coming straight from the iceberg manufacturing plant somewhere off Newfoundland. The drop in the temperature along the New England coast averaged nearly 40 degrees.

DR. SHEPARD REMAINS HIGH.

No Election on Sixth Ballot for Bishop at General Conference.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 20.—No election resulted on the sixth ballot in the General Conference for bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, it was announced today. Dr. W. O. Shepard of Chicago retained his position as high man with 423 votes, a drop of 77 from his fifth ballot. Necessary to elect 500.

ONE UPHOLDS, THE OTHER CONDEMNS.

Committee Makes Majority and Minority Reports.

Lorimer's Case Placed Before the Senate for Trial Action.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The case of Senator Lorimer of Illinois, whose election was alleged to have been brought about through corruption, today was placed before the Senate for final action. Majority and minority reports were made by the special investigating committee, the former upholding and the latter condemning the Senator.

The majority reported that all the rules of law, judicial procedure and justice required that the Senate's former judgment in Senator Lorimer's favor be held final and conclusive, and that absolutely no new evidence was discovered on this re-investigation, his election being "the logical result of existing political conditions in Illinois." This report was submitted by Chairman Dillingham, and had the approval of Senators Gamble and Jones, Republicans, and Fletcher and Johnston of Alabama, Democrats.

The minority reported that the evidence presented at the second investigation was "broader and more far-reaching" than the previous inquiry brought out, and it conclusively established that at least ten of the votes cast for Lorimer were corrupt and that his election, therefore, was invalid. The minority report was signed by Senators Kern and Lea, Democrats, and Kenyon, Republican.

The majority report dealt at length with the evidence in an endeavor to show that nothing substantial had been produced against Senator Lorimer. It also reviewed the legal authorities to show that the first investigation of the Senate should be taken as final. The controlling factor in the action of the Senate in re-opening the case, so the majority said, was reports that a fund of $100,000 was raised either by or through the efforts of Edward Hines, a Chicago lumberman, to secure the election of Senator Lorimer.

The majority rejected the version Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester Company, gave of a conversation he held with Mr. Hines in the Union League Club in Chicago just after Senator Lorimer's election. It was during this conversation that Funk claims Hines asked for a $10,000 contribution to a $100,000 Lorimer fund. The majority said that Mr. Funk's testimony stood uncorroborated, either by other witnesses or by any circumstances.

In discussing Mr. Funk's testimony that he had (heard reports of Mr. Hines's activities in Springfield, the majority declared that "such reports must have had birth in Mr. Funk's imagination." Comment was passed on the fact that for many months H. H. Kohlsaat, editor of the Chicago Record-Herald; James Keeley, editor of the Chicago Tribune; Victor F. Lawson, owner of the Chicago News and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt knew of Mr. Funk's version, and none saw fit to bring the information to the attention of any person connected with any investigation; "In fact, the Funk testimony," it was said later in the report, "has been taken cum grano salis by nearly every one who has heard it. Mr. Funk himself admitted that he thought his story would not be believed."

The committee reported that it did find that Mr. Hines was flattered by being consulted by Senators Aldrich and Penrose in regard to the desire to have some Republican elected to the Senate from Illinois. "His sense of the importance of the matter," it was said, "was greatly enhanced when he knew that they had been in conference with the President and that Mr. Lorimer's candidacy would not be objectionable to him, and that to be entrusted with the responsibility of making known their wishes and explaining the attitude of the President to Governor Deneen and Mr. Lorimer was a personal honor."

Expert accountants employed by the committee, it was stated, had failed to find any evidence in the books of Edward Hines of Edward Tidlen of connection with a Lorimer election fund.

Other testimony was gone into in an exhaustive manner, and taken altogether, the committee said, the testimony indicated to it that Mr. Lorimer's election was the result of political conditions, and not attributable to the corrupt use of money. The report dwelt on the statement that not a single witness had reflected on Senator Lorimer personally, and that no testimony existed as to a single indiscreet remark or improper action on his part.

As to general corruption funds in the Illinois legislature it was said that "without definite proof of the existence of a specific jack-pot the committee can only report that a general belief exists among many classes that corruption funds have been more or less common in connection with legislation in that state."

STATE HATCHERIES VISITED.

National Association of Shell Fish Commissioners at Wickford.

PROVIDENCE, May 20.—The state hatcheries at Wickford where the lobster was successfully propagated artificially for the first time in this country, was inspected today by about 75 members of the National Association of Shell Fish Commissioners, who closed their convention in Boston last week. The commissioners were taken on a steamer to the oyster shucking houses on Narragansett bay and then landed at Wickford, where they viewed the work that has been accomplished there.

THOUSANDS IN LINE.

People Anxious to View Body of King Frederick Lying in State.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 20.—More than 30,000 persons were in line when the doors of the chapel where the body of the late King Frederick VIII of Denmark is lying in state were thrown open today. The progress of the column, which circulates without cessation around the coffin, is so slow that many of those waiting cannot hope to enter the chapel.

HEAD OF DETROIT CLUB IS SILENT.

Not to Talk Until Better Acquainted With Situation.

Base Ball Game Scheduled with Philadelphia Postponed by Agreement.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—With the arrival here of Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club, further developments were expected today in the extraordinary base ball situation brought about by the strike of the American League team. President Navin arrived at 9:30 o'clock and went directly to the hotel where President Johnson is staying. "I won't have anything to say until I become thoroughly acquainted with the situation," he said. Prior to Mr. Navin's arrival, Jennings had a talk with Johnson.

The game scheduled for today between Philadelphia and Detroit has been "postponed" by agreement. If there is no settlement, the game scheduled between the "Tigers" and Washington in the National Capital will also be played at another time.

If there is no settlement of the trouble today or tomorrow immediate steps will be taken, according to Ban Johnson, to put a new team in the field to represent Detroit. The team, Mr. Johnson declares, will be a good one, but he declined to say from what source the players will be drawn. It is probable, however, that at a special meeting of the American League, called for tomorrow in this city, each of the club owners will help President Navin to put together a new team. Hugh Jennings, it is understood, has agreed to manage the new combination, if it is organized.

The striking players were glad to learn of the proposed meeting; it showed, they said, that their strike was something of greater import than a petty grievance. They have received telegrams from members of every team in the league supporting their attitude, and one of the players said, in confidence, that George Stovall of the St. Louis team, now in Washington, and Olson, the shortstop of the Cleveland club, now in New York, represented those teams in yesterday's secret conference when a players' protective association was discussed.

Late last night President Johnson said, in discussing the status of the striking Detroit players: "Every one of the striking players has automatically suspended himself and made himself ineligible to compete in a game under organized base ball control until he is reinstated by the national commission. By refusing to play a scheduled game all these players have vitiated a clause in their contract which makes them liable to fine not only by the Detroit club, but also by the national commission. The Detroit club will not appear on the field again until I am assured that it has a team of competent players, who can compete successfully with other teams of the league. There will be no more farces in the American League."

Ban Johnson was astir early to take up the adjustment of the unusual complication which confronts him. Prior to the arrival of Mr. Navin, he reiterated his statement that the players had automatically suspended themselves. He said that as president of the American League he will not treat with the players, but whatever he does will be with the president of the Detroit club.

"Well, I see we are probably blacklisted," said one of the Detroit players to some of his comrades. They all laughed, and appeared not to take that feature of the case very seriously. One of the possible outcomes, it was declared, was that the national commission had the power to blacklist the strikers if they persisted in refusing to play ball until Cobb is reinstated.

Ban Johnson says the matter of reinstating Cobb is not the vital question just now. The Detroit players must first return to the ball field or a new team will be organized before the star player's case will be taken up. If no settlement of the present trouble is reached, several of the Detroit men are in favor of making a barn-storming tour.

BINDING FOR FOUR YEARS.

New Agreement Between Operators And Miners to be Signed Today.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Unless an unlooked for hitch occurs, the new agreement between the coal companies and the anthracite miners, which was ratified by the miners in convention last Saturday, will be signed here this afternoon, binding both sides to the new wage arrangement for a period of four years. The committee authorized by the mine workers to sign the new peace pact left the coal regions this morning. It includes John P. White, international president of the union, John T. Dempsey, Thomas Kennedy and John Fahy, district presidents.

Repair men all over the anthracite fields returned to work to prepare the mines for the resumption of mining. The big body of miners will resume work Wednesday and the shipment of coal to market will be started Thursday. It probably will be a week before the industry will reach its normal average of production.

SHOE WORKERS PLAN MERGER.

50,000 Labor Unionists Propose to Combine to Avoid Strikes.

BOSTON, May 19.—A movement to combine all the unions connected with the boot and shoe trade, with the object of bringing about industrial peace by avoiding strikes, and otherwise promoting the interests of wage earners in the trade generally, assumed concrete form at a meeting of union leaders held in this city today.

After resolutions had been passed recommending the formation of the merger, further resolutions were adopted, recommending that a referendum vote be taken among all the shoe workers of the country on the matter of combination. This joint vote will decide the question. Such a merger would affect more than 50,000 persons. All the large labor unions of the country, including the Boot and Shoe Workers, the Cutters' Assemblies, Knights of Labor and the United Shoe Workers of America, were represented by high officials. Many smaller and independent bodies connected with the trade were also represented.

BIG FIRE SWEEPS HOUSTON.

Loss from Conflagration in Business District Placed at $1,000,000.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 19.—A fire in Houston's upper business district, which started at 4 o'clock this morning, had caused tonight a loss approximating $1,000,000. The fire spread rapidly from a large six-story building, which was ablaze when the firemen reached the scene, to surrounding structures, and the resulting conflagration burned practically the whole day.

Intense heat was generated almost from the start, and made work more difficult. Adjoining buildings took fire from the six-story Stewers building, in which the fire originated and which the firemen could hardly approach for two hours. Lighting and telephone wires cracked and fell, together with their supporting poles. Wall after wall went with a roar.

The blaze spread across Capital avenue to the Latham building and to the Mason building, the flames leaping to the upper floors of the 10-story Jones building, a fireproof structure which was comparatively slightly damaged. The 16-story Carter building, a block distant, was blistered and the windows were broken by the heat.

Defective wiring is blamed for the fire.

MANY PENSION APPLICATIONS.

Haste in Filing Petitions for Allowance Under Sherwood-Smoot Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Seven thousand or 8,000 applications are being received daily at the pension bureau for pensions under the Sherwood-Smoot service pension bill, recently passed by Congress. It is estimated that there will be 425,000 of these applications, and the haste in filing them is due somewhat to the fact that Congress provided that all pensions shall take effect from the date of the filing of the application.

Commissioner of Pensions Davenport is of the opinion that it will be necessary for Congress to give him an increased force of clerks to handle the extra work devolving upon the bureau. He says that when a similar bill was passed in 1907 the bureau had 100 more clerks than at present.

Except in the case of applicants who have never received pensions, attorneys for claimants will not be recognized by the bureau, as this is specifically prohibited in a provision of the new service pension law which carries an increase of $25,000,000 for the first year.

Under the present law veterans 62 years old receive $12 a month; 70 years, $15, and 75 years, $20. Hereafter, veterans 62 years old with 90 days' service will receive $13 a month; six months' service, $13.50; one year, $14; 18 months, $14.50; two years, $15; two years and six months, $15.50, and three years, $16. Veterans 66 years old will receive $15.50, $16, $16.50, $17, $18 or $19, according to length of service as rated in the above statement for those 62 years old. Veterans 70 years old will receive $18, $19, $20, $21.50, $23 or $25, and those 75 years old, $21, $22.50, $24, $27 and $30. Thirty dollars, the largest amount, will be paid for two years' service or more.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Rev. John B. Diman preached at the Middlesex School Sunday, and Rev. Arthur N. Peaslee at Wickford.

The services at St. Columba the Berkeley Memorial Chapel Sunday were in commemoration of Ascension Day, which fell on Thursday. The preacher was the rector, Rev. Latta M. Griswold, whose text was taken from St. Matthew XV:28, "O Woman, great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt." There was a large congregation.

The religious meetings of the Epworth League, which have been held since November in the form of cottage services among the members, were resumed last week at the Methodist Episcopal Church. The meeting this week will be followed by the first quarterly conference, conducted by the district superintendent, Rev. W. I. Ward, who is to preach Sunday.

The pleasant weather Sunday induced considerable driving. Automobiles were greatly in evidence, as was testified by the trails of dust left in their wake, in spite of the continued rain.

Professor D. J. Lambert, poultry expert and instructor at Kingston College, is to be heard before the Grange on the subject "Poultry—How Can I Best House, Feed and Care for My Poultry to Secure Greatest Profit?" The same evening Mr. C. A. Miller, secretary of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society, will present a paper on "Bees in Relation to Fruit Production." An opportunity for questions and discussions render these meetings very helpful.

Mrs. Lionel Peabody, who has been spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Herbert Ward, of Honeyman hill, returned Sunday to her home in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sisson of Gypsum road entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. John McCartney of Star Hill.

TALE OF A ROYAL RELIC.

[Blackwood's.]

Mrs. Andrew Lang tells of a [illegible] man in whose chateau was a window on which Henry IV had [illegible] the inscription: "[illegible] 22 de Septembre, 1590—Henry." The [illegible] first saw it was in the form of big, clumsy letters. Two years later, being again in the neighborhood, he revisited the chateau, when he was astonished to find that the inscription was now in three lines, with the letters much more nearly uniform. After a [illegible] effort he got a [illegible] the secret. For [illegible] years the inscription on the window had been the guide's pride and [illegible] till, in one fatal moment of inattention on his part, an Englishman had cut the pane of glass out of its setting and walked away with it in his pocket.

The poor guide hurried to tell his master what had befallen him. The owner of the chateau assured him that the accident was of no consequence and could soon be put right. And so it was! A piece of glass of the same size as the other panes was procured and fastened neatly in its place. The guide received orders to turn his back so as to allow visitors [illegible] if they wished, to steal it. But it was necessary for the man to perceive in the nick of time what was going on, and only consent to shut his eyes on the receipt of a handsome tip (the amount fixed beforehand), two-thirds of which was to go to his master.

Crawford Boilers

heat where others fail

The only Boilers that are guaranteed to do what they are rated to do; you don't have to get the "next larger size."

To those who want heat at the least cost of care and money we offer these Boilers with a guarantee that means something;—a warm house in zero weather, heat perfectly controlable, simplicity of operation, a saving in fuel, trouble and repair bills and a great gain in satisfaction.

We know the boiler troubles; we have made boilers for 30 years and in these radically new and scientifically correct designs we have produced heating apparatus better than anything heretofore offered.

ECONOMY AND EXTRAVAGANCE.

Apples, Baked in Sugar, Are Full Sweetened; Without, Weazened Beyond Expression.

[Martha McCulloch Williams, in New York Tribune.]

"You do have the best baked apples," my thrifty visitor admitted, "but, dear me! I shouldn't dare fix them as you do. With so many children, you see, I have to be very economical."

I smiled politely over her compliment, signing inly the while over her mistake. In my own house I am rather cowardly in preachments. Otherwise, I would certainly have told the lady she was extravagant rather than economical. Since a facetious editor has given me claim to fame as architect of "the best apple sauce in New York—yrs. in the whole world," it may be pardonable to tell how it is made. The easiest way, though not quite so decorative, makes something just the same in the mouth. It is further a bit more saving of fruit substance. Get a quart of good, sound greenings, wash them well, wipe and core, but do not pare. Stick four cloves in each apple, then set them in a pan rather deeper than themselves, packing them close and cutting quarters or thirds to fill interslices. Then add to them a pound—three cups—of granulated sugar, a little mace, the juice of a lemon and another lemon cut in thin slices. Finish with a scant half-cup of water, put on a close fitting lid, and cook in a hot oven 20 to 25 minutes. Take off the top then, slack heat one half, and cook a few minutes longer—until the apples look clear. Pour into a bowl and let cool, uncovered—the juice will be a beautiful clear jelly, better than the apples themselves.

The troublesome way is to make a syrup of sugar and a full cup of water, first boiling in the water the sliced lemon and mace, with a teaspoonful of ginger—either essence or powdered. Cook 10 minutes, skim, add sugar, skim again after it boils. Drop into the kettle apples pared and cored, and stuck lightly with cloves. The kettle should be broad so the fruit will but cover it. Bring to a bubbling boil, cook for a minute, then simmer gently until the apples are clear. Lift out carefully with a skimmer, arrange on a dish, then boil down the syrup until it is like—but very hard—and dip it by spoonfuls over the apples. They should be a pale clear pink or amber, according to variety. An enthusiastic poet calls them, thus prepared, "Apple sauce gone to heaven."

Sounds extravagant. You think my visitor was right? Wait a bit. The pound of sugar, costing at the outside seven cents, the lemons and spices costing, say, seven more, have added not merely flavor but bulk to the return. Apples baked thus in their jackets and full sweetened do not shrink. Baked without sugar, in the common way, they are weazened beyond expression. Indeed, mammy used to say they looked like "De very last of bad luck." Moreover, it takes two or three of them to satisfy any healthy, real apple appetite. Still further the rind is tough and leathery—so much so you swallow it at your peril. By covering after full sweetening, the rind becomes a titbit. Moreover, the juice, which in ordinary baking is much more than half lost, turns to rich jelly. There is more waste of substance in cooking apples in syrup—the parings can be saved and turned into jelly, but are hardly worth the trouble. But with apples at present prices and fruity things imperative, it seems to be economy, not extravagance, to make the most of them.

MILLINERY IN NEW YORK.

[Millinery Trade Review.]

There has been more of a demand for black and black and white hats than for colors, particularly along the avenue and in the smart shops in the fashionable side streets. Black, trimmed with white, is the most in favor. Large, small and medium shapes, sailors and chips in black, trimmed with white, or black and white fancies, or with natural straws, are sold readily. Partial facings, bindings and smart tailored bows of white satin on black are very much in evidence at present. One finds a two-inch binding of white satin on the brim of many hats. Taffeta is not for the best trade and satin and bengaline are coming up strong for facings and trimmings in place of taffeta and velvet. The better trade show a decided preference for large hats and, now that sailor shapes and mushrooms have been adopted by the masses, low hats are appearing in the smartest establishments.

There is, however, a decided craze for "close-ups" in both flowers and feathers, with a preference for the former. Ostrich feathers are strong at present, fashion in lovely tips and aigrettes, in pompons and various fancies is much in vogue, particularly in shaded effects and two-toned effects, or in natural or black and white.

Sunday the crowd overflowed the stands and made a great showing for so early in the season. The temptation to crowd into left field kept the officers of the team busy getting the youngsters back out of the danger zone and free from the playing field. The grand stand and bleachers were filled early, and for the first time a large proportion of the female sex was seen, and all were young. It was the start of the real base ball season, and the weather was not bad and the spectators were not frozen: also, they saw a well-contested game.

While the score looks more one-sided than that of Saturday, the game was very evenly played, and it was partly by luck and partly by taking advantage of every little point that the Trojans won. The visitors were from the armored cruiser Washington, the Louisiana team being unable to appear. The Washingtons made a great showing. Their pitcher was very effective and, though hit some, kept the hits scattered, except in the fifth and eighth. His support was generally good, but at times not equal to the strain when the Trojans began their apparently reckless running about. The visitors hit Sheehan rather often, but he had the faculty of tightening up, and three fast double plays helped shut off as many chances for runs.

There were some special features. Jelly, at first for the visitors, had 16 put-outs and should have equalled Ekstrom's record of the day before. Harvey, at second for Trojans, had nine put-outs and four assists. In the second inning, on the second batter up, Carr caught a foul tip on his bare hand and had a finger so put out he had to retire. Ekstrom came in from first and caught a fine game. The play was interesting until the very last, though it became evident before the end that the Trojans had won. The score:

Notes.

The Talbot Company distributed among the spectators at Saturday's game at Wellington Park "Facts for Fans," by Phelon, a complete little base ball guide, containing the rules and records of the past and other seasons. In view of the unabridged edition size of the modern base ball guides, a compact little guide like this is a handy one for reference. The rules are correct and up to date, with the exception of two "outs," to use a printer's term, in rules 49 and 51, which would naturally be read into the rules.

The management ought to have an additional whitewash line in continuation of the third-base fence, behind which the public might be kept.

PERSONALS.

....Rev. J. C. Lissendon has resigned as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Millville, N. J., to accept a call to the pastorate of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, New York city. The Sixteenth Street Church has been without a pastor since last fall, when Rev. George H. Dyakonit accepted the pastorate of a Baptist church in Brooklyn.

....Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, the first wife of the late John Jacob Astor, has sailed for London, accompanied by her daughter Muriel. Both were mourning. While Mrs. Astor will not give up her London house, she made it clear that she would make her home in this country. She will now carry out plans cherished for some time, namely, to live in America with her son.

....A dinner given Saturday night by the O. P. Club in London, in honor of Phyllis Neilson Terry, was made the occasion of a unique gathering of the famous family whose talents are inseparably interwoven with the fortunes of the English stage. Among those present were Kate Terry and Marion Terry, aunts of the guest of honor; Muriel Terry, Beatrice Terry, Edith Craig and Mabel Terry Lewis, all cousins, and Julia Neilson, her mother. Unfortunately Fred Terry, her father, and Ellen Terry, the most famous of them all, were unable to accept the club's invitation. Sir Herbert Tree presided, and McDonald Rendle proposed the toast "Miss Neilson Terry."

The New Parasol.

The parasol has a long cord handle, attached to the stick in such a manner that when the cord is looped over the shoulder the parasol hangs at just the right angle. The lingerie frock of cream embroidered batiste is accompanied by a cordeliere parasol in black and white.

THE SAILOR.

[Percy Adams Hutchison, on board the schooner Mabel Jordan, 1898.]

He never knowed much o' things in books,
He'll never know any more;
He's mostly sober aboard the ship,
An' drunk when off ashore;
But when in a piping sou'west gale
There's work in the tops to do,
He's up, though the seas break over the yards,
If them's his orders to.

He sleeps in a hunk too short if he's tall,
An' narrower than he is thin.
And all of him's huddled into a hut
You wouldn't pen cattle in;
But he scrapes her decks an' cleans her paint,
Till she looks like she was new,
Though the sun on his head makes him wish he was dead,
If them's his orders to.

He's hot when it's hot, an' cold when it's cold,
An' sicker than you would guess,
And it's pretty hard, though he daresn't complain,
To stomach the fo'c'sle mess;
But he chops the ice from off her ropes,
And off her canvas, too,
While his fingers is froze 'fore ever he knows,
If them's his orders to.

He never learned much o' right an' wrong
Aboard o' his Sunday School;
He never heard of a rule of love,
Nor yet of a Golden Rule;
But when his ship is sinkin' fast,
An' boats for half the crew,
He'll stand an' drown when she goes down,
'Cause them's his orders to.

PANCIES.

He—So you are going to throw me over for that Will Jones, are you?

She—Yes. Papa says I haven't a will of my own, and so I'm going to get one.

Lady—Why didn't you dust the chairs?

Maid—I didn't think they'd need it. The dust will all come off as soon as they've been sat in.

Miss Catchem—You've already proposed to six girls this year, and they all refused you.

Mr. Slyboy—Yes; because each of them knew I was head over heels in love with you.

She—I intend to run for alderwoman as soon as we get our rights.

He—Well, it is to be hoped that the styles change, and that women do not wear hobble skirts when they start running for office.

Now doth the anxious graduate
Begin to go to pieces.
He's been a shirk and cut his work
But now appears Nemesis!
With frenzied toil, and midnight oil
He cultivates paresis
By doing crams for spring exams.
And working up his thesis.

WORK THAT TELLS.

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here in Newport.

Cures that last are cures that tell. To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate the cures and see if they prove permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Newport. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, kidney and urinary disorders, now declare that relief was permanent and the cure perfect. How can any Newport sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Mrs. S. E. Freeman, 52 Van Zandt Ave., Newport, R. I., says: "I still consider Doan's Kidney Pills a fine remedy and am glad to confirm the public testimonial I gave in 1906 in their praise. A relative was troubled a great deal by backache and there were other symptoms which left no doubt that his kidneys were disordered. He did not rest well and was stiff and lame upon arising in the morning. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, a supply was procured at Wright & Hay's Drug Store and they gave satisfactory results."

THE INEVITABLE DEMOCRATIC LUCK.

Just at the moment when the wholly unprecedented campaign between Taft and Roosevelt is splitting the Republican party and opening such a chance for victory as the Democratic party has not had for 28 years—though it did win two elections during that period—the invariable Democratic hoodoo appears in William Jennings Bryan. The Democrats felt they could not lose, so serious is the division among the Republicans, and now the Nebraskan drives wedges into the party which he has led to three monumental defeats, and is doing his utmost to divide it worse than the Republican party is divided.

Governor Harmon has made a forceful and, to all reflecting persons, a convincing reply to the attacks of Bryan. It is the Bryan men in Ohio who have fought his reformatory legislation, who tried to prevent his re-nomination and who have been accused by name of trying to defeat him after he was nominated. For all that Bryan may or may not be responsible, but he is, of course, solely responsible for going into Ohio and trying to defeat Harmon in his own state after the last Democratic state convention had named him as Ohio's Favorite Son. The nature of his attack is such as to be an attack upon a large part of the Democratic party, and if Bryan can succeed in doing what he is attempting he will divide the party as badly as he did in 1896. He is attacking Harmon as a Cleveland man, a gold-standard Democrat and a supporter of the Palmer and Buckner ticket 16 years ago. Harmon and most of the gold-standard Democrats supported Bryan four years ago because they believed there was no danger of free silver coinage, and they wished to maintain party unity, even if the candidate were not much to their taste.

If Bryan can raise the silver issue again, if he can have men proscribed for supporting the gold standard, there is nothing left for sane Democrats to do but to support the Republican candidate, whoever he may be. Bryan is determined to secure the nomination or defeat any other Democrat who may be given it.

ARBITRATION FOR COMMERCIAL DISPUTES.

The New York Chamber of Commerce for more than a year has been doing a work which is likely to be copied by organizations of business men in other parts of the country. This new departure by this body is the adoption of a plan for the settlement of disputes of a commercial nature without resort to the courts. Of course such a procedure cannot be adopted in all such difficulties, but it has been found possible to refer a large number of disputes of this sort to arbitration and thus avoid friction, delay and expense attendant on legal proceedings in matters of such small moment that they do not warrant the expenditure of large amounts of money or time, or the engendering of strife of such a character as often attends the taking of cases to court. This work was undertaken as a sort of experiment, because it was thought that some action of this sort was greatly needed and it was believed some good could be done along this line by the Chamber of Commerce. The results have been highly satisfactory to the men who proposed the plan, and also to those who have figured in the settlement of cases by arbitration.

Wisely, the business men who instituted this new method of settlement of minor commercial disputes did not try to act in all cases of disagreement, but recognized the fact that many such cases, because of their nature, must be settled in a court of law. They felt, however, that a large proportion of disputes of a minor nature could be brought to a satisfactory conclusion by the method of arbitration, and they decided to try the plan and see how it would work. The method of procedure is for both parties to a disagreement to agree to abide by the decision of arbitrators, for the appointment of arbitrators satisfactory to both parties, or the hearing of the cases by these men, and for them to decide in accordance with their knowledge of the rules of commercial life and their estimate of the justice of the cases. The experiment has proved more successful even than was anticipated, and a large number of cases have been settled in that way in the last year, establishing a precedent of great value.

The features of this plan which commended it in the beginning to the business men who suggested it, and which commend it, also, to the business men who are profiting by it, are that it is inexpensive, avoids delay and secures justice. The economy embodied in it is very appreciable, though it is not possible to estimate it with any accuracy in dollars and cents. Litigation is expensive, and business men are well aware of that fact and realize very clearly that a saving in that respect which is very large is made every time a case is settled without resort to legal and court procedure. It is appreciated, too, by men in the business world that the law's delays in these days are such as to make it exceedingly difficult to secure any satisfaction in legal proceedings within a reasonable length of time, and the disadvantage of delay in this settlement of any dispute is fully understood by business men. The matter of justice, too, is no small item in estimating the advantages of this arbitration plan, for it is well known that under the jury system as it exists in this country today the securing of justice at the hands of juries is by no means certain, while this method of arbitration brings an equitable disposition of the cases because they are decided by men who are particularly well informed upon the matters in dispute.

There is no question but this means of settlement of minor matters of dispute in the commercial world will commend itself to others besides the members of the Chamber of Commerce in New York, and it is practically certain that the plan will be adopted by business bodies in other cities. It does not limit its operations to members of the Chamber, but extends its good offices in this direction to any who may apply and agree to abide by the decision of the arbitrators they may select from the list arranged by the board. This makes the plan of general benefit and enlarges the influence of the Chamber beyond the limits of its own membership in a very practical and useful way, which is calculated to establish it more firmly in the public favor and thus work to its own advantage as well as to that of the business men and the people generally in the community.

STAMFORD'S MORAL EARTHQUAKE.

It is not surprising that Stamford is in a state of mind over the triple shock of the arrest of three of her highly respectable citizens for defalcations in two of her banks. When the first case occurred, a month ago, it caused a convulsion, and when two officers of another bank were arrested for defalcations entirely independent of each other all Stamford may well have asked, as Washington did when the treachery of Arnold was exposed, "Whom can we trust?"

All the morals appropriate to the occasion are so obvious that there is no use in reproducing them, but in considering preventive measures for the future some doubt may be expressed whether the institution in which two officers, by methods wholly independent of each other, concealed frauds for a considerable period by falsifying the books has the best and most modern system of accounting. If it has, it is evident that methods of accounting cannot be depended on to prevent frauds. No system will work itself, and the probability is that because all these officers were highly respectable—as all bank officers are—and because all were intimate with each other, each man was left to himself without the supervision which is imperative, even with the best of bookkeeping.

That one of these men accused of defalcation has been speculating is known now; whether it was known before the defalcation was suspected and an investigation made is not clear. In the smaller cities people know a good deal about each other, and if a bank officer is "taking fliers" in the market it is apt to be noised abroad. Any bank which would protect itself must deal sternly with any speculating employe.

The psychological puzzle remains: how can a man of standing in the community, with steady habits and a reputation to lose, take the bank's money and falsify the books? It is the prospect of sudden wealth and the delusion that he can succeed where so many have failed—and then, of course he would replace the money.

A member of the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal Church has offered to pay for ten sittings in the auditorium for men at the Training Station, so that that number may feel they have a church home. The seats will be scattered among the pews—not grouped together. The plan is a most excellent one, and should be adopted by other churches. The men at the station have the same religious need as other men, and it should be recognized by the churches of the city. The number of men in the army and navy quartered at Newport is large, and that of the navy will steadily and greatly increase. The problem of the social and religious welfare of these men is before the people of this city. What will they do with it?

St. Paul, Minn., has voted to adopt the commission form of government, and after June, 1914, the city will be ruled by seven electors, chosen by the people. Presumably the commissioners will be men, but as women voters are given the credit for the change they may have something to say as to who shall fill the offices. Whether men or women form the commission, "credit" may change to "responsibility," for it is not at all clear that the commission form of city government is essentially better than the representative form, which Newport has adopted. Whether commission or representative, no government in a democracy can be permanently better than the people of the municipality make it, as all power comes from the governed.

The condition of Thames street Sunday morning did not at all suit persons who believe in clean streets. There was a superabundance of papers lying on the pavement and on the sidewalk, and it was noticed that they were chiefly fashion papers which had been distributed Saturday. Five copies of one of these papers were found at the entrance to The News office Saturday afternoon, and apparently there was an equal over-supply at other points. The Civic League asks for barrels in which such papers may be thrown. An easier way would be to prohibit their distribution as they have been distributed.

A Methodist clergyman in Orange, who is left-handed, believes he belongs to a tribe of geniuses which should be organized. His invitation to left-handed people for a first meeting reads: "Most great geniuses, though not all, are left-handed, though perhaps I should say left-handed people are geniuses. There is a real reason for it. The reason people are right-handed is that the left lobe of the brain is more developed. There is a distinct advantage in having the right lobe of the brain more developed. If that side is the more developed you are left-handed."

Mr. John C. Milne, the veteran editor and proprietor of the Fall River News, observed his eighty-eighth birthday Saturday. Mr. Milne started to learn the printer's trade when eight years of age, and, with the exception of three years, has been a printer and publisher until the present. He is still actively connected with the publication of the News, his health being remarkably good for a man of his years.

Ohio will have its Presidential primaries tomorrow, and then the candidates will give their attention to New Jersey. The excitement will soon be over, and the end can come none too soon for the country, as well as the candidates themselves.

Well may the residents of the coal regions in Pennsylvania rejoice, and the pastors of the churches give thanks, that the troubles between the coal operators and operatives have been satisfactorily adjusted.

It looks very much as if the Detroit base ball players are all out on one strike. It usually takes three strikes to put out one player, but the Detroit case is different.

Straw hats blossomed out in considerable numbers yesterday, but they have been called in today—temporarily, at least.

UNCLE SAM—CONFECTIONER.

[L. W. Richardson, in Popular Mechanics Magazine.]

The new candy factory of the government is away up on the top floor of the bureau of chemistry and was one of the last new features added to the work of that institution by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley before he resigned. The bureau has long had its watchful eye on the candy product of the country, especially that of the penny stores and push-cart venders who draw their trade from the ranks of juveniles. There was no accepted standard of purity and the government had to make its own.

The bureau announces that it not only intends to improve the quality of the candy, but better still, after the chemists find out exactly how good it can be made without saccharin and how the best results are to be obtained by the precise mixing of the ingredients, they are going to get out a recipe book which will have the approval of the government, and may be had for the asking.

NEW YORK'S CATHEDRAL.

[Springfield Republican.]

It is proposed to raise $5,000,000 more this year toward the completion of the great Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York city. The famous cathedrals begun in the Middle Ages took centuries for their completion—if, indeed, any of them are yet entirely finished. But money is time, and millions will do the work of centuries—that is, for the practical purposes of a practical age.

Commissioners to Certify to Read June 1 Amount of Taxes.

Warren Bridge Re-Opened—Smallpox in Coventry—Carload of Bay Oysters for Canada.

The board of state tax commissioners will, June 1, certify to General Treasurer Walter A. Read, for collection, the amount of tax assessed against the various corporations doing business in the state. The publication of the total amount which will be derived from the new tax laws, made at this time, will be the first definite information, as the tax commissioners have declined to make any statements as to the money which will be brought in. General Treasurer Read, in a statement a few days ago, said it would be necessary for the total under the tax act to amount to roughly $1,500,000, in order that appropriations made by the Assembly might be paid. Because this is the first assessment under the new law, it is probable that several corporations have been overlooked because they failed to make returns. The tax for this year, however, due from such corporations, will be collected next year with back interest, under another provision of the tax law.

By order of the state board of public roads, Kelley's bridge in Warren, which has been closed to trolley car traffic for six years, may be used from now on by vehicles, under restrictions. Notices have been posted on the ends of the span ordering but one vehicle at a time on the bridge, and designating the speed of each vehicle at not more than three miles an hour. An appropriation was made at the last session of the General Assembly to rebuild the bridge and keep it in order. The span has been in use by vehicles during the trolley car embargo without speed regulation.

Another case of smallpox, the one hundred and fifteenth since November 7, has been discovered in the town of Coventry. Joseph Fontaine of St. Croix, Canada, who is visiting in the family of John Cherpelle in the village of Harris, is ill with the disease and has been removed to the Coventry pesthouse. Fontaine's case makes the fourth outbreak of smallpox in the town of Coventry since November 4. Fontaine's condition is not serious, in the opinion of the health officer.

Congressman George F. O'Shaunessy is to deliver the oration at Bristol July 4, having accepted an invitation of the Fourth of July committee of that town. A communication was received from Congressman O'Shaunessy Friday to the effect that it is very likely that a war vessel will cast anchor in Bristol harbor Independence Day, as Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer is in favor of the plan. Arrangements have been made for fireworks for the celebration in the evening.

A carload of Narragansett bay oysters has been shipped from Warren to the Canadian fisheries commission at Pictou, Nova Scotia, the first instalment of shellfish sent to the Provinces from Warren. The consignment is of selected oysters to be used for an experiment in raising the bivalves along the coast of the Bay of Fundy by the Canadian commission. The shipper is Captain George T. Greene.

Rev. James T. Harrington has been appointed to the rectorship of St. Agnes Church, Providence, to succeed Rev. John F. Sullivan, who has been transferred to the Holy Name parish at Central Falls. Father Harrington is a native of Fall River and after completing his early education there studied at St. John's Seminary in Toronto, completing his course five years later. Ordained at Holy Cross Cathedral in Boston by the late Archbishop Williams, he received several brief assignments and finally was appointed curate at St. Ann's Church, Cranston. In January, 1906, he was transferred to St. Edward's. He will probably take charge of the work at St. Agnes parish about the middle of the week.

The names of several Rhode Island young men appear in the announcement of awards of fellowships and scholarships in the last issue of the Harvard University Gazette. In the awards for 1912 and 1913 in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences there appears the name of Samuel C. Webster, a Senior in the Rhode Island State College, a student in botany. Robert Campbell Weed of Providence, a graduate of Brown University in 1909 with the degree of Ph. B., has been appointed to the Edward Dyer Peters scholarship in mining in the Graduate School of Applied Science. Romeo Raoul Martel of Pawtucket, a Senior in Brown University, has been given a University scholarship in civil engineering. Edward Leo Black of Pascoag, a student at Phillips Exeter Academy, is one of those who have been given the first assignment of aid from the Price Greenleaf Fund for 1912-13, and Alfred Ernest Rain of Providence, a Brown man is another.

Three well-known young men—Charles Henry Pendleton, '78, Youngstown, O.; Harry Wild Jones, '82, Minneapolis, Minn., and Charles Sumner Stedman, '95, Albany—have been selected by the advisory board of the Associated Alumni of Brown University as candidates for nomination to fill the vacancy on the board of trustees caused by the death of Charles G. King, A. B., Cleveland, Ohio. Ballots containing the names of these men, and the information that votes for one of them may be mailed to the secretary of the Associated Alumni or deposited in boxes on the campus or near the First Baptist Meeting House on Commencement Day, have been mailed to the alumni.

At the Democratic caucus in the town of Narragansett little interest was shown and the matter of nominating a ticket was left entirely to the town committee. It is understood the committee will endorse the entire Republican slate from end to end. If this is done it will mean there will be no contest of any kind at the town election.

INVENTOR OF LAWN TENNIS.

Major Walter Clopton Wingfield Belonged to One of the Oldest Families in England.

Major Walter Clopton Wingfield, usually described as the inventor of lawn tennis, has died at his town residence in London. Thirty-eight years ago he patented a game which he called "Sphairistike." The court he introduced resembled the shape of an hour-glass, the base lines being wider than the net, which was 4 feet 8 inches high. There were side nets running at right angles to the middle net and the players had to "serve" from a marked spot quite near the net, instead of from behind the base line. The game at once became exceedingly popular with both sexes and hastened the vogue of present-day lawn tennis.

Major Wingfield, who died at the age of 78, founded the Cordon Rouge cookery association some 20 years ago. He belonged to one of the oldest families in England, the Wingfields, occupying Wingfield Castle in Suffolk, at the time of William the Conqueror. He was for 35 years one of the king's bodyguard of gentlemen-at-arms, and commanded the cavalry forces at the surrender of Pekin.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, May 20.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Unsettled, with occasional showers tonight and Tuesday; moderate, easterly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Clear weather prevails in Middle Atlantic states, while there is more or less cloudiness in most other portions of the country. Rain has fallen during the past 12 to 24 hours in the upper Lake region and the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys, southern Florida and on the northern Pacific slope. The pressure is above the normal in the Atlantic coast states, the highest at Portland, Maine. In the West there is a trough of depression extending from eastern Nebraska southwestward through Kansas, thence northwestward to the northern Pacific slope. The lowest barometer readings reported are 29.74 inches at Dodge City, and Concordia, Kansas, 29.70 inches. No decided departures from the normal temperature are noted, and it is moderately cool in northern districts and moderately warm in central and southern sections. The lowest reported in the country is 30, with a minimum of 30 degrees at Greenville, Maine. In New York city at 8 a. m. it was 58, Washington 68, New Orleans 72, St. Louis 68, Chicago 60, Denver 50, San Francisco 54 and Portland, Oregon, 54.

SECOND DIVISION SAILS.

Ships Put to Sea for Drills, and May Be Attacked by the Torpedo Boat Destroyers.

At noon the outer harbor looked [illegible] as a naval base, though there were still a battleship, an armored cruiser, the supply and repair ships and the torpedo and submarine fleets and their tenders. The Second division of the Atlantic fleet put to sea during the forenoon for drill. The Louisiana returned this morning from her standardization trials, and the New Hampshire left Sunday for the same purpose; hence the ships which [illegible] were the Louisiana, Kansas and South Carolina. Admiral Winslow had returned his flag to the Louisiana on her return. In anticipation of putting to sea the liberty [illegible] Saturday was of shorter duration than that of the two weeks previous, and many of the men said they did not have time to go out of town [illegible] therefore, was much lighter. The Second division will cruise back and forth off this coast during the week, taking turns to come in to coal, and tonight it is expected that the torpedo boat destroyers will go out and try to locate and attack them. Today the North Dakota is coaling from the Mars, but the Delaware has also put to sea for drill.

Admiral Osterhaus arrived in town on Saturday evening from Boston and at once went on board his flagship, the Washington, and there was a salute of guns just after 6 o'clock [illegible] announced to the initiated that he had arrived. It is his plan to remain here until the middle of next week. The ships will then sail for Hampton Roads and return after a month's absence with the entire fleet [illegible] first week in July.

Destroyer Patterson came in Sunday from Boston, and has joined the [illegible] of her class. She is commanded by Lieutenant Commander John M. Luby, who is also in command of the Fourth group.

WILLIAM J. EDGECOMB DEAD.

Sunday morning when John F. [illegible] called William J. Edgecomb, [illegible] of his boarders, at his house on Washington street, there was no response, and an investigation showed Mr. [illegible] that Edgecomb had passed beyond the period of work and waking up. Medical Examiner Sherman was notified and gave a permit for the removal of the body, death being due to natural causes. Mr. Edgecomb had been for a number of years in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad as flagman at the crossing on Washington street and was a steady man, attending to his work well. He was taken ill with [illegible] and for a time was away from here for treatment. He had been gradually failing, and persons who saw him were not surprised when they heard of his death.

SEVERAL AMBULANCE CALLS.

A LONG TALK OF WISDOM.

Emmanuel Filled to Hear Dr. Porter's Encouraging Words.

Beginning of Red Men's Celebration, Which Will Continue Three More Nights.

The celebration of Weenat Shassit Tribe of Red Men's twenty-fifth anniversary and the ninety-ninth anniversary of the Improved Order of Red Men began Sunday evening and will continue three more nights.

The opening of the celebration was the attendance of the tribe at church. The initiation of a class of 62 will take place this evening; tomorrow evening there will be a dinner, which will be attended by a number of big chiefs and the members of the tribe, and Wednesday evening an entertainment for chiefs and squaws.

Two hundred chiefs gathered at the wigwam of the tribe early in the evening, preparatory to taking up the trail for Emmanuel Church, where the big white prophet, Rev. Emery H. Porter, D. D., was to give a long talk on wisdom and encouragement. Pale faces from the government reservation known as Fort Adams, with tom-toms and other instruments, under the leadership of Big Chief Freeman, were in waiting to lead on the trail, which lay via Washington square, Thames street and South Baptist street. Hundreds of pale faces were lined up to witness the sight.

It was a long line, which seemed to comprise very many more than it really did. The tomahawk carried by some of the chiefs appealed to the small boys more forcibly than did the red sashes to the grown people. The pale-face scouts were in good wind, playing two pieces on the way down, with but a brief rest, and one tune coming back.

At Emmanuel Church, the great council house, there were in waiting many more chiefs and squaws, it being estimated by the ushers that 300 seats were occupied by Red Men and 40 by members of the Daughters of Pocahontas. The remainder of the accommodations were quickly taken up by pale faces, and after many extra seats were filled there were still persons outside who could not find room within.

Pale face Hendy, who has signified his intention to be one of those to try the rough and rocky trail tonight, was at the wind organ, causing it to emit sweet-sounding zephyrs and peals, and then trailed in the finely trained surpliced choir. The full Episcopal service was performed, with "Nearer, My God to Thee" for one of the hymns. The singing of this must have been most inspiring outside the church, where the great volume of voices could be heard as they could not within. The great organ and choir were little more than accessories to the hundreds of voices.

Dr. Porter, as he stepped out to deliver his long talk, seemed particularly well pleased with his large audience, and after the recessional he returned to the council chamber to greet such of his visitors as he could reach.

Taking for his text Joshua 1:13: "The Lord, your God, hath given you rest and hath given you this land," Dr. Porter spoke of the 40 years when the children of Israel had wandered in the wilderness and of their sufferings. He then branched off onto the travels of the Red Men. He said they were not, as he had long supposed, a new order with fanciful name, but were built on an old superstructure, one dating back to Colonial and Revolutionary days, when members of a patriotic society of settlers adopted the garb of the Indian for their meetings and conferences, to assure themselves personal safety.

Back in 1763, he said, there were the Sons of Liberty, who were banded together to raise the oppression to which the settlers were subjected. After the necessity had passed, in 1813 the Red Men were formed in Delaware for the purpose of banding together for fraternal and charitable purposes. The coming of the Asiatic scourge carried off so many that this body was put out of existence, and next came the establishment of the Improved Order of Red men, which now numbers 500,000 throughout the United States; every member must be an American citizen. The attendance of the members of the order at church, he said, was an evidence of their recognition of the moral and religious foundation, and that they dared to hear the word of God.

Dr. Porter then gave attention to the three virtues, or beads, under which the order is founded—Freedom, Friendship and Charity. As to Freedom, it is one of the noblest of words. It is what our flag means. It recalls vividly the aborigines and the labors of the founders of the order in raising the oppression which rested on the people of this country. Freedom means to do that which is right as well as what is wrong, and it should not be abused in working out everlasting misery. Let your freedom remind you of the right and set a good example for others.

Friendship, he said, means much. There are different kinds. It is a rare thing, and more than a comradeship. It is a most valuable asset in life. It means a larger world for those who are tied together by it. There are 500,000 Red Men. In the opinion of the speaker, the man who is not a member of some order is a lonely man, who walks in a narrow circle, and he who is a member of a good order is apt to be broader-minded. The home ties should be guarded by not being given up too much to orders, but there is room for both to benefit. Friendship, he said, is the uplift of the whole land, and beneficial in that self gives up to help others.

Charity said Dr. Porter, was the cause for the re-organization of those men who had founded the Sons of Liberty to help each other in time of sickness and death. The speaker told of his personal observation of the charity of the Red Men. He had seen it in the home of sickness and death. The needed thing was the thing done, and it was done at the time when it counted most. It requires a full treasury to disburse in time of need, and the treasury depends on the payment of dues, even though such payment may at times mean a sacrifice.

He hoped that the members would look to the future as well as the past, and that they would seek to be free as citizens as well as men. He considered it a great privilege to speak to so large a body of men, and encouraged them to do good. While he had thought it might not be possible for him to accept the invitation to attend the dinner Tuesday evening, Dr. Porter said his desire to be with the Red Men was so strong he proposed to remove other obstacles and be there.

A SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY.

May Procession of Girls and Young Women Perhaps Last Big One St. Mary's Will Have.

Sunday afternoon, as is usual for the annual May procession at St. Mary's Church, the sun shone brightly on the many happy children and their parents and friends, who gathered about the church and, as far as possible, crowded into it. The various girls' and young women's societies had assembled in the school, when the lines were formed. Shortly before 3 o'clock girls and young women, headed, as usual, by the very smallest, looking bright and cheerful in their little special costumes, and each society carrying its banner, began to move toward the church amid a row of spectators which crowded every available place giving a view of the procession. Inside, the church had been appropriately decorated for the event, and a solemn high vespers was sung by Rev. William B. Meenan, assisted by Rev. Martin F. Reddy of St. Augustin's as deacon and Rev. Edward Tierney as sub-deacon. The usual reception of members of the several societies followed, with the professions of the new members, the awarding of badges and medals and the investiture of the new members by the priests. With a short talk by Father Meenan the service occupied nearly two hours during which every one on the closely packed church paid the closest attention.

In every way the annual May procession of 1912 was a success. It was the last big May procession of St. Mary's parish, for next year St. Augustin's parish will have its own procession, as it will then be occupying the new church, and the St. Mary's parish societies will miss the many children who live within the other parish. For the services yesterday the priests of both parishes united in making the event one to be remembered by the little ones, and the sun smiled on their efforts.

QUIET IN FISH CIRCLES.

Prices Going Up With Promise of a Fair Shipment Soon—Mackerelmen Arriving.

Things are still quiet in fish circles. The shipment yesterday was only about 125 barrels, and will not be much heavier today. Fishermen are holding out for better prices, and prices are going up so that tomorrow there may be a fair shipment. Today the Rover had about 30 barrels of all sorts, the H. E. Hamlin 30, F. W. Lawton 35 and the Tiger 20. Other boats may increase this.

The mackerelmen are arriving, and yesterday the Aloha landed 207 mackerel here. Besides the Aloha, there are in port schooners D. A. McKowan, Marguerite Haskins and Benjamin Smith. The last named, Captain Hickman, is taking on ice, gasoline and supplies, and will leave for the Cape shore. The Marguerite Haskins is also taking on ice. One of the schooners bumped on the shoal spot off Pinniger & Manchester's dock in coming in, but floated without assistance.

C. B. Anderson's men are putting in a new trap, and others are making repairs to gear today.

Fred E. Harty of the Boston Mackerel Company is expected here tonight.

Mr. John E. Gorman, who has been convalescing for several weeks, is again in condition for active service, and is representing S. O. Storer of New York and J. A. Rich of Boston.

During the illness of Samuel Smith, John Mack will look after his interests for Eldred & Haley.

"What a Relief."

Only the woman who has tried knows what comfort and relief a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove brings into the kitchen.

It is not only that the New Perfection cooks so well. It saves so much work in other ways. There are no ashes to clean up before going to bed; no fire to bank for the night. Everything is ready for cooking in the morning at a touch of the match.

You are saved from an overheated kitchen: saved from soot and dirt: saved from chopping wood and carrying coal. In the kitchen or the laundry for the lightest or the most elaborate meal, you will find the New Perfection stove with the New Perfection oven is the best and most convenient.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Handsomely finished throughout. The 2 and 3 burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc.

FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Local Courts of Foresters to be Hosts of the Grand Body at Father Mathew's Hall.

The twenty-third annual convention of the Grand Court of Rhode Island, Foresters of America, will be held in Father Mathew's hall tomorrow, the three local courts—Wanton, Pride of the City and Friendship—being the hosts of the grand body. The convention will consist of the present Grand Court officers, all past grand chief rangers and delegates from each of the 37 subordinate courts in the state. The delegates from the Newport courts are James Graham, from Court Wanton; Thomas F. Gough and Patrick O'Connell from Court Pride of the City, and Richard D. Graham and James Melvin, from Court Friendship. Frederick S. Franco of this city is grand senior woodward.

The convention will meet at 11 o'clock, Grand Chief Ranger James R. Cannon presiding. At the morning session reports will be received, and at 1 o'clock recess will be taken and the grand officers and delegates will march to the Perry House for dinner. Officers will be elected at the afternoon session.

Past Supreme Chief Ranger Thomas F. Donahue, Supreme Senior Woodward M. P. McLaughlin of Providence and Supreme Senior Beadle P. J. Kennedy of Exeter, N. H., will attend as guests of the Grand Court.

Tonight Court Pride will celebrate its twenty-sixth anniversary at which there will be present some of the Supreme and Grand Court officers and delegates. The committee in charge has planned an elaborate program.

PROBATE COURT.

In the probate court this morning the will of Anna Cottrell was proved and letters testamentary thereon were granted to John Howland Gardner. The will of Henry Weston was proved and letters testamentary were granted to Harriet Weston. Notice was waived and letters of administration de bonis non with will annexed on the estate of John H. Newton were granted to Thomas A. Lawton. The first and final account of the administrator with the estate of Ellen T. Howard, and the first and final accounts of the guardians in Rhode Island of Francis B. and Louis A. Perkins were allowed and ordered recorded. Inventories on the estates of Milton Hall and Ida Lewis Wilson were ordered recorded.

Mme. Navratil and Her Children Sail for Nice Where the Mother Will Resume Millinery.

Mme. Navratil, accompanied by her two children, Michael and Edmond, who were rescued from the Titanic after it had sunk with their father on board, has sailed for Nice. They were assigned to rooms in the second cabin, but while waiting were besieged by saloon passengers, who had learned of their identity, and the proposal was made that they would be taken into the first cabin, on subscription among the saloon passengers.

Through an interpreter Mme. Navratil expressed her gratitude for the attention showered upon her and her children and for the cure bestowed upon the latter before her arrival. She said she had no money, as her husband had taken all her funds when he fled with the children on the Titanic. She will resume millinery work at Nice.

SOCIALISTS OPPOSE ANARCHY.

[New York Tribune.]

The ban put by the Indianapolis convention on the anarchistic activities of the Industrial Workers of the World and others who, posing as Socialists, incite to violence and preach "direct action" is a sign of rational progress. The convention ordered the expulsion from the party of any member who "advocates crime, sabotage or other methods of violence as a weapon of the working classes." No political party can thrive here which does not adapt itself to the American ideal of political progress through orderly agitation. The Socialists have, therefore, shown practical sagacity in disavowing all association with anarchists and revolutionists and pledging themselves to work for their political program in a sane and orderly way.

FOR PROTECTION OF THE PORT OF LISBON.

The British and Portuguese governments are now in negotiation for the protection of the port of Lisbon. The idea is to make it a strong basis for naval operations. The old fort of Almada, situated across the Tagus in front of Lisbon, will be demolished and re-constructed with the latest improvements and armed with heavy artillery. The forts of Bom Success and Sao Julliao de Barra will be likewise improved and fitted out with new artillery. These improvements form a part of the defense of the Portuguese coast and the strategic triangle of Madeira, Lagos and Cape Vert, which has been included in the provisions of the Anglo-Portuguese alliance.

POLITICS HAVE RIGHT OF WAY.

Detract Interest From an Absorbing Congressional Situation.

House and Senate in Contest. Deadlock Certain—Minority Leader Mann an "Objector."

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—It is doubtful whether Presidential politics will allow much interest to attach to what would be an absorbing Congressional situation. I refer to the contest between the House and the Senate. The House has stuffed the appropriation bills with legislation which the Senate promptly rejects. That a deadlock will be the result is certain.

So far the men who have charge of the various bills have not come together and shown the divergent views existing between the two houses. There has been a delay indicating a desire to postpone the fight or a wariness about engaging in it. These men may be likened to a pair of wrestlers or pugilists, who circle about each other, sparring ineffectively or watching each other cautiously, each waiting for an advantage, each knowing that sooner or later they must "come to scratch." Even when the contest reaches its most acute stage it is likely to be so outclassed with the Presidential situation that it will cause but little comment.

Congressman Pujo of Louisiana and former Congressman Olcott of New York met on the street the other day and discussed the flood situation on the Mississippi river, Pujo being much interested because his state was being submerged. He explained to Olcott that there were places along the river where the levees were about 60 feet high and the water was within a foot of the top. He went further into the subject and said that in some places the bottom of the river had been raised by the levee system until it was higher than the adjacent land. We have heard such things asserted often, although it seems incredible. It looks as if the river had been raised high enough.

Long before he became minority leader of the House Congressman Jim Mann won the title of "objector," because he was always opposing bills and motions. Recently two Colorado men were trying to secure the passage of a bill by unanimous consent. Mann said he was going to object. Both Hardker and Taylor asked why he objected, and Mann replied:

"I object to the principle of the bill, I object to the form, I object to the substance, I object to the manner."

"Outside of that is there anything else that you object to?" asked Taylor.

The minority leader usually interposes before making a flat footed objection the remark "reserving the right to object" and then asks for an explanation of the bill. When a bill was called up not long ago Mann modified his statement by saying, "If the gentleman wants to make a statement I will reserve an objection."

"Does the gentleman object?" asked Speaker Clark, who did not want the time wasted.

"In the end I shall object," replied Mann.

"You might as well make your objection now," said the Speaker.

"I always give a man a show for his white alley," was Mann's explanation.

"There is not much show for any man's white alley to let him talk and explain and then object to his bill," commented Foster of Illinois.

If the bill which passed the House providing for coining three cent pieces and one-half cent pieces shall become a law the color of the present pennies will be changed to look like the five cent pieces in circulation. Careful inquiry was made, and the bill when passed provided that the new coins should not in any way interfere with the size of coins in existence or the present sized coins changed. It developed that not only slot machines, but that large banks, use devices for counting coins by their size, and any change in the size of the coins would be very expensive.

Congressman Peters of Massachusetts was trying to get through a bill which would cost the government money. Fitzgerald of New York showed a disposition to oppose the measure. During a slight lull Congressman Austin said to Peters: "I suggest the gentleman reserve the balance of his time to answer the watchdog of the treasury, who is to follow him."

Senator Root frequently hurls a brick at lawyers, more particularly that class that lives by picking up cases. Supporting the employers' liability bill, he said it relieved the laboring men from "dependence upon the class of lawyers who have fattened upon their misfortunes, and it substitutes the certainty of reasonable compensation without the necessity of paying a large part to a lawyer for a gambler's risk that every poor fellow who is hurt now takes."

Arthur W. Dunn.

A NATIVE OF NEWPORT.

Governor Samuel Ward's Record Lauded at Celebration of His Election in Westerly.

The record of Samuel Ward, first elected governor of the state of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, was lauded at an impressive patriotic celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of his election held in the Westerly Opera House, not far from the former home of the Colonial statesman.

The speakers were Judge John W. Sweeney of Westerly, President Thomas W. Bicknell of the Rhode Island Citizens' Historical Association, Mrs. Edward M. Burke of Westerly and Roswell B. Burchard, formerly Speaker of the Rhode Island house of representatives. Governor Ward was a native of Newport and was born May 27, 1725. He graduated from Harvard in 1743 and in 1745 married and settled in Westerly. In May, 1762, he was elected governor of the colony, serving three terms. He died of small pox in 1776, while a delegate to the Continental Congress at Philadelphia.

DISFIGURING ECZEMA CURED

"My nephew first showed signs of eczema on the middle finger, and it came out like a blister. He must have rubbed his face with that hand, as it then broke out on his nose the same way. When the blisters broke, they shrivelled up and formed scabs. His nose was covered with scabs, and it was very itchy. He was badly disfigured with unsightly scabs. At first, his nose was sore, and it gradually became worse so his mother took him to the doctor. He told her to rub the scabs off every day, and anoint the affected part with the medicine he gave her. The man must have had insane, as that was extreme torture to the child who was only two years old at the time. Well, we decided that that treatment would have to end. I suggested Cuticura Ointment and they bought it and put it on freely every day for two weeks. He had the eczema for four weeks altogether, but was getting gradually worse until they used the Cuticura Remedies, and he was cured in two weeks. In fact a change would have been noticed with the other treatment, but now he hasn't a single mark." (Signed) Miss Ida Slavin, 930 South Tenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 1, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to "Cuticura," Dept. 'KK, Boston, for a liberal sample of each, post-free, with 32-p. book on the care and treatment of the skin and scalp.

ATLANTA SELECTED.
City to Act as Host for 1913 Assembly of Northern Presbyterian Church.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 20.—Atlanta, Ga., was today selected as host for the 1913 Geeral Assembly of the Northern Presbyterian Church. Rochester and Atlantic City, which were contenders, withdrew.

Atlanta plans to entertain thousands of members of each branch of the Presbyterian Church in 1913. Forty-two missionaries from all parts of the world are scheduled to tell some of their experiences and make recommendations for future work at the annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, which is in session here today in connection with the General Assembly.

The Woman's Board of Home Missions also convened in its annual meeting. Reports of committees advocating the policy of providing definite pensions or annuities for all ministers, based on the period of service rendered, and the recommendation of a church-wide movement to secure a permanent endowment fund of $10,000,000, to be divided between the board of ministerial relief and the ministerial sustenation fund, largely occupied the attention of the assembly this morning.

UNION IN EDUCATIONAL WORK.
Methodist Protestant Ministers in Japan Express Opposition.

BALTIMORE, May 20.—The quadrennial report of the secretary-treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church for presentation to the General Conference of the denomination, now holding its twenty-first session here, was made public today. Union in educational work was favored by the missionaries of the United Brethren Church, the Evangelical Association Church and the Methodist Protestants and a "suggested plan" was adopted, but nothing definite looking to its consummation has been done. Four-fifths of the ministers of the Methodist Protestant Church in Japan have expressed their opposition to the proposed union with the Japanese Methodist Church on the question. The report says it is "a dead issue."

FIRING PARTY AND BUGLER FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Camp Commander Boldt of Camp Thomas called on Commander Dayton of the Training Station this morning to request the usual assistance from the station for the observance of Memorial day. Commander Dayton agreed to issue orders for a firing party and a bugler to attend the veterans to the cemetery in the morning, where they will hold their exercises over the Government plot. Many of the members of the camp are from the station, hence it will be necessary for some of the men to secure special liberty to appear in the ranks with their comrades on that day.

BEACH DIRECTORS FULL OF BUSINESS.

The beach association directors are full of business. They were at the beach Saturday afternoon; Saturday evening they worked on the report of the committee until midnight; Sunday they were looking over the field again, and today they are on the beach still considering the details for the various plans of improvement which have already been outlined in The News. If the good weather will only continue there will be quite a change in the appearance of things during the present week.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, May 20, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper at 81¼, American Beet Sugar 73¾, American Cotton Oil 55, American Smelting and Refining 86½, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 89¾, Canadian Pacific 266¾, Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul 105¾, Erie 36¼, Great Northern preferred 123½, Great Northern Ore Certificates 45; Interborough Metropolitan 21¼, Interborough Metropolitan preferred 60½, Lehigh Valley 180 to 180½, New York Central 119¾, Pennsylvania 123¾, Reading 177¾, Southern Pacific 112, Union Pacific 171, United States Steel 71 and 71¼, Wabash preferred 20¾.

10—Termination of the anthracite coal strike was reflected in the strength of Lehigh Valley and Reading at the opening of today's stock market. The former advanced 1½, and Reading 1¾. Some strength was shown by Steel, Canadian Pacific, Illinois Central, Great Northern Ore Certificates and some of the minor specialties.

11—Lehigh, after advancing over 2 points, fell back with Reading. A more uneven tone was displayed, generally, except in the specialties.

Noon—Irregularity of the first hour became marked later, Lehigh yielding more of its gain and Reading selling under Saturday's close; also Steel, Amalgamated, Smelting and other market leaders. Harriman shares were relatively firm with little change in standard railway issues. Manipulative tactics in specialties were continued. Rubber Common rising 4 points with material gains in such speculative stocks as American Ice, Texas Company, Colorado Fuel, International Harvester, Sears Roebuck and American Car & Foundry. The rise in Rubber was attended by rumors of an increased dividend. Canadian Pacific fell over a point, with one-point losses in Brooklyn Transit and Northern Pacific. Bonds were easy. Money on call, steady, at 2¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper 4 to 4½ per cent. Exchanges $262,495,260; balances $11,394,699.

TITANIC WAIFS ON OCEANIC.

Mme. Navratil and Her Children Sail for Nice Where the Mother Will Resume Millinery.

Mme. Navratil, accompanied by her two children, Michael and Edmond, who were rescued from the Titanic after it had sunk with their father on board, has sailed for Nice. They were assigned to rooms in the second cabin, but while waiting were besieged by saloon passengers, who had learned of their identity, and the prophecy was made that they would be taken into the first cabin, on subscription among the saloon passengers.

Through an interpreter Mme. Navratil expressed her gratitude for the attention showered upon her and her children and for the care bestowed upon the latter before her arrival. She said she had no money, as her husband had taken all her funds when he fled with the children on the Titanic. She will resume millinery work at Nice.

SOCIALISTS OPPOSE ANARCHY.

[New York Tribune.]

The ban put by the Indianapolis convention on the anarchistic activities of the Industrial Workers of the World and others who, posing as Socialists, incite to violence and preach "direct action" is a sign of rational progress. The convention ordered the expulsion from the party of any member who "advocates crime, sabotage or other methods of violence as a weapon of the working classes." No political party can thrive here which does not adapt itself to the American ideal of political progress through orderly agitation. The Socialists have, therefore, shown practical sagacity in disavowing all association with anarchists and revolutionists and pledging themselves to work for their political program in a sane and orderly way.

FOR PROTECTION OF THE FORT OF LISBON.

The British and Portuguese governments are now in negotiation for the protection of the port of Lisbon. The idea is to make it a strong basis for naval operations. The old fort of Almada, situated across the Tagus in front of Lisbon, will be demolished and re-constructed with the latest improvements and armed with heavy artillery. The forts of Bom Sucesso and Sao Juliao de Barra will be likewise improved and fitted out with new artillery. These improvements form a part of the defense of the Portuguese coast and the strategic triangle of Madeira, Lagos and Cape Verd, which has been included in the provisions of the Anglo-Portuguese alliance.

POLITICS HAVE RIGHT OF WAY.

Detract Interest From an Absorbing Congressional Situation.

House and Senate in Contest, Deadlock Certain—Minority Leader Mann an "Objector."

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, May 18.—It is doubtful whether Presidential politics will allow much interest to attach to what would be an absorbing Congressional situation. I refer to the contest between the House and the Senate. The House has stuffed the appropriation bills with legislation which the Senate promptly rejects. That a deadlock will be the result is certain.

So far the men who have charge of the various bills have not come together and shown the divergent views existing between the two houses. There has been a delay indicating a desire to postpone the fight or a wariness about engaging in it. These men may be likened to a pair of wrestlers or pugilists, who circle about each other, sparring ineffectively or watching each other cautiously, each waiting for an advantage, each knowing that sooner or later they must "come to scratch." Even when the contest reaches its most acute stage it is likely to be so outclassed with the Presidential situation that it will cause but little comment.

Congressman Pujo of Louisiana and former Congressman Olcott of New York met on the street the other day and discussed the flood situation on the Mississippi river, Pujo being much interested because his state was being submerged He explained to Olcott that there were places along the river where the levees were about 60 feet high and the water was within a foot of the top He went farther into the subject and said that in some places the bottom of the river had been raised by the levee system until it was higher than the adjacent land. We have heard such things asserted often, although it seems incredible. It looks as if the river had been raised high enough.

Long before he became minority leader of the House Congressman Jim Mann won the title of "objector," because he was always opposing bills and motions. Recently two Colorado men were trying to secure the passage of a bill by unanimous consent. Mann said he was going to object. Both Rucker and Taylor asked why he objected, and Mann replied:

"I object to the principle of the bill. I object to the form. I object to the substance. I object to the manner."

"Outside of that is there anything else that you object to?" asked Taylor.

The minority leader usually interposes before making a flat footed objection the remark "reserving the right to object" and then asks for an explanation of the bill. When a bill was called up not long ago Mann modified his statement by saying, "If the gentleman wants to make a statement I will reserve an objection."

"Does the gentleman object?" asked Speaker Clark, who did not want the time wasted.

"In the end I shall object," replied Mann.

"You might as well make your objection now," said the Speaker.

"I always give a man a show for his white alley," was Mann's explanation.

"There is not much show for any man's white alley to let him talk and explain and then object to his bill," commented Foster of Illinois.

If the bill which passed the House providing for coining three cent pieces and one-half cent pieces shall become a law the color of the present pennies will be changed to look like the five cent pieces in circulation. Careful inquiry was made, and the bill when passed provided that the new coins should not in any way interfere with the size of coins in existence or the present sized coins changed. It developed that not only slot machines, but that large banks, use devices for counting coins by their size, and any change in the size of the coins would be very expensive.

Congressman Peters of Massachusetts was trying to get through a bill which would cost the government money. Fitzgerald of New York showed a disposition to oppose the measure. During a slight lull Congressman Austin said to Peters: "I suggest the gentleman reserve the balance of his time to answer the watchdog of the treasury, who is to follow him."

Senator Root frequently hurls a brick at lawyers, more particularly that class that lives by picking up cases. Supporting the employers' liability bill, he said it relieved the laboring men from "dependence upon the class of lawyers who have fattened upon their misfortunes, and it substitutes the certainty of reasonable compensation without the necessity of paying a large part to a lawyer for a gambler's risk that every poor fellow who is hurt now takes."

Arthur W. Dunn.

A NATIVE OF NEWPORT.

Governor Samuel Ward's Record Lauded at Celebration of His Election in Westerly.

The record of Samuel Ward, first elected governor of the state of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, was lauded at an impressive patriotic celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of his election held in the Westerly Opera House, not far from the former home of the Colonial statesman. The speakers were Judge John W. Sweeney of Westerly, President Thomas W. Bicknell of the Rhode Island Citizens' Historical Association, Mrs. Edward M. Burke of Westerly and Roswell B. Burchard, formerly Speaker of the Rhode Island house of representatives. Governor Ward was a native of Newport, and was born May 27, 1725. He graduated from Harvard in 1743 and in 1745 married and settled in Westerly. In May, 1762, he was elected governor of the colony, serving three terms. He died of small pox in 1776, while a delegate to the Continental Congress at Philadelphia.

DISFIGURING ECZEMA CURED

"My nephew first showed signs of eczema on the middle finger, and it came out like a blister. He must have rubbed his face with that hand, as it then broke out on his nose the same way. When the blisters broke, they shrivelled up and formed scabs. His nose was covered with scabs, and it was very itchy. He was badly disfigured with unsightly scabs. At first, his nose was sore, and it gradually became worse so his mother took him to the doctor. He told her to rub the scabs off every day, and anoint the affected part with the medicine he gave her. The man must have been insane, as that was extreme torture to the child who was only two years old at the time. Well, we decided that that treatment would have to end. I suggested Cuticura Ointment and they bought it and put it on freely every day for two weeks. He had the eczema for four weeks altogether, but was getting gradually worse until they used the Cuticura Remedies, and he was cured in two weeks. He most certainly would have been scarred with the other treatment, but now he hasn't a single mark." (Signed) Miss Ida Slevin, 243 South Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 3, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to "Cuticura," Dept. KK, Boston, for a liberal sample of each, post-free, with 32-p. book on the care and treatment of the skin and scalp.

ATLANTA SELECTED.

City to Act as Host for 1913 Assembly of Northern Presbyterian Church.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 20.—Atlanta, Ga., was today selected as host for the 1913 General Assembly of the Northern Presbyterian Church. Rochester and Atlantic City, which were contenders, withdrew.

Atlanta plans to entertain thousands of members of each branch of the Presbyterian Church in 1913. Forty-two missionaries from all parts of the world are scheduled to tell some of their experiences and make recommendations for future work at the annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, which is in session here today in connection with the General Assembly.

The Woman's Board of Home Missions also convened in its annual meeting. Reports of committees advocating the policy of providing definite pensions or annuities for all ministers, based on the period of service rendered, and the recommendation of a church-wide movement to secure a permanent endowment fund of $10,000,000, to be divided between the board of ministerial relief and the ministerial sustentation fund, largely occupied the attention of the assembly this morning.

UNION IN EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Methodist Protestant Ministers in Japan Express Opposition.

BALTIMORE, May 20.—The quadrennial report of the secretary-treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church for presentation to the General Conference of the denomination, now holding its twenty-first session here, was made public today. Union in educational work was favored by the missionaries of the United Brethren Church, the Evangelical Association Church and the Methodist Protestants and a "suggested plan" was adopted, but nothing definite looking to its consummation has been done. Four-fifths of the ministers of the Methodist Protestant Church in Japan have expressed their opposition to the proposed union with the Japanese Methodist Church on the question. The report says it is "a dead issue."

FIRING PARTY AND BUGLER FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Camp Commander Boldt of Camp Thomas called on Commander Dayton of the Training Station this morning to request the usual assistance from the station for the observance of Memorial day. Commander Dayton agreed to issue orders for a firing party and a bugler to attend the veterans to the cemetery in the morning, where they will hold their exercises over the Government plot. Many of the members of the camp are from the station, hence it will be necessary for some of the men to secure special liberty to appear in the ranks with their comrades on that day.

BEACH DIRECTORS FULL OF BUSINESS.

The beach association directors are full of business. They were at the beach Saturday afternoon; Saturday evening they worked on the report of the committee until midnight; Sunday they were looking over the field again, and today they are on the beach still considering the details for the various plans of development which have already been outlined in The News. If the good weather will only continue there will be quite a change in the appearance of things during the present week.

The Public School Teachers' Retirement Fund.

(Legal Title) Incorporated May 6, 1898.

PURPOSE: To pay to teachers who have taught not less than 30 years an annuity equal to one-half the amount of salary, received at time of retirement, to a limit of $600.00.

SOURCES: From teachers who must pay one per cent of their salaries to a limit of twelve dollars per year; from gifts; and from entertainments.

CONDITIONS: Because the fund amounts to only $32,535 the eleven annuitants are receiving one-quarter instead of one-half of their salaries.

NEED: Besides the eleven annuitants six teachers have taught thirty years and can retire in June if they wish.

TRUSTEES: Three members of the school committee, superintendent of schools, three teachers. The city treasurer is treasurer of the fund.

FORM OF BEQUEST: I give and bequeath to The Public School Teachers' Retirement Fund of Newport Rhode Island, the sum of ——— to be applied to the uses of the fund.

New York Central 119¾, Pennsylvania 123¾, Reading 177¾, Southern Pacific 112, Union Pacific 171, United States Steel 71 and 71⅛, Wabash preferred 20¼.

10—Termination of the anthracite coal strike was reflected in the strength of Lehigh Valley and Reading at the opening of today's stock market. The former advanced 1⅝, and Reading 1⅜. Some strength was shown by Steel, Canadian Pacific, Illinois Central, Great Northern Ore Certificates and some of the minor specialties.

11—Lehigh, after advancing over 2 points, fell back with Reading. A more uneven tone was displayed, generally, except in the specialties.

Noon—Irregularity of the first hour became marked later, Lehigh yielding more of its gain and Reading selling under Saturday's close; also Steel, Amalgamated. Smelting and other market leaders. Harriman shares were relatively firm with little change in standard railway issues. Manipulative tactics in specialties were continued, Rubber Common rising 4 points with material gains in such speculative stocks as American Ice, Texas Company, Colorado Fuel, International Harvester, Sears Roebuck and American Car & Foundry. The rise in Rubber was attended by rumors of an increased dividend. Canadian Pacific fell over a point, with one-point losses in Brooklyn Transit and Northern Pacific. Bonds were easy. Money on call steady, at 2¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper 4 to 4½ per cent. Exchanges $202,495,266; balances $11,-394,699.

SOCIETY NOTICE.

SPECIAL MEETING, Local 534 Painters, Monday evening, May 20, at 8 P. M.

MAY BE BOYS, AND MAY NOT BE.

Some One Making Trouble for Electric Light Company, and Many Others as Well.

Manager Gosling today gave some light on the electric troubles to which the city is subjected at various times, greatly to the inconvenience of storekeepers and others. The Duke street trouble Friday night was all on account of a metal umbrella handle being thrown into the air so that it short-circuited the high-tension wires. Last Christmas the trouble which put the street in darkness during the heaviest part of the shopping time, he says, was caused by a piece of iron wire being thrown into the air and, landing, doing a similar thing. These would seem to be the result of boys at play. That it is not all playfulness and the doings of boys, however, there is ground for suspicion, in consequence of a happening which has been kept quiet for months.

A building was being moved and certain wires had to be cut on West Broadway. When they were re-connected the current failed to flow. After a long search for the cause it was found that while the current was off some one had apparently climbed a short pole in the rear of the Opera House and twisted two wires together in such a manner that the line was dead beyond. This was deliberate and, what is more, because of the high power of the current it is believed the wires were twisted while the power was cut off for the moving of the building, and apparently by someone who knew such to be the case and something about the lay of the ground.

If there is some one trying to make trouble for the company such a one is also making trouble for a great many others, and endangering life ad property. On the other hand, it should be understood that the boyish prank of throwing articles up to entangle wires is also likely to result in damage, perhaps in points far removed from the scene of the throwing. The police cannot have eyes everywhere, and it may be said to be a moral duty of every good citizen to interfere when they see such things being done. The electric company says it erects its lines in the most approved way, but it cannot guard against such incidents as have been stated.

SUNDAY BUSINESS CURTAILED.

Police Seize Liquor From Three Places on Long Wharf—Two Tiverton Boys in Court.

The police were busy again on Long wharf Sunday and, while several visits were made to places under suspicion, only three places were found with liquor, and these were quickly without the liquor. The places where finds were made were those of Demetri Demetres, 115 Long wharf, where about five cases of lager-beer were found in a shed in the rear of the premises; Stamos Salonikas, 111 Long wharf, where about the same quantity was secured, and John Stantos, 132 Long wharf, where 22 bottles of lager were found on ice. All the lager was seized. Just what will happen is yet to be learned. It does not follow because the beer was found on the premises that the men named had it for sale, but the police took it. There were as many on duty on the wharf as a week ago, and it is agreed that the business of the wharf Sundays has been greatly curtailed.

This morning Chief Manchester was in from Tiverton with two boys, one charged with taking and using a bicycle not his own and the other with malicious mischief. The former pleaded guilty and was placed on probation; the latter pleaded not guilty.

NEWPORT BOY CUT BY SAILOR.

Affray at the Rink Occurred in the Smoking Room, and Was Not Known to Skaters.

There was a cutting affray at the skating rink Saturday night. Two sailors had some sort of argument, according to the stories told, and Rufus Wheaton, a Newport boy, who was with one of the sailors, also a Newport boy, was cut by the second sailor. He received cuts on the head, hand and abdomen. Dr. Keenen was called and deemed it best to have the injured man sent to the hospital, where Dr. Stewart found his injuries were not serious, being superficial cuts. The man who did the cutting is absent without leave from the police, who have been unable to find who he is or from what ship he came.

The affray occurred in the smoking room, and was not known to people skating in the rink—in fact, it was some time after the affair before any one thought it might be serious, and then the friends of Wheaton induced him to go to a drug store.

Topsy, colored maid, Miss Pearl Bowers.
Children—Miss Genevieve Hayes, Mary Sheehan and Katherine Davis.

Rev. Anson B. Howard preached at St. Paul's Sunday morning, his text being taken from Ephesians IV:1, "I beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called." He clearly defined the difference between "vocation" and "avocation," and said that it is or should be the "vocation" of Christians to make a close adherence to God's word in their lives, and not the "avocation." He announced that the diocesan convention will be held in St. Paul's, Pawtucket. An offertory anthem, "As the hart desireth the water brooks," was finely rendered.

The text of Rev. Albert Loucks of the Christian Church Sunday morning was Romans VI:23, and in the evening St. Matthew XI:29.

The morning service of Rev. John Wadsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church was founded on the text in Exodus XXI:13 and in the evening school teacher Saturday evening. The Children from the Grammar school and a few from the Intermediate department, numbering 23, hung a large May basket to the Grammar school teacher Saturday evening. The basket was filled with fruit, candy, nabiscos and many other good things, to which drink was added by the head of the household. The teacher had been to Providence and had not reached home when the children arrived, but they were made welcome and spent the interim in games of many kinds, remaining later to enjoy their teacher's company.

Mrs. Jesse Eddy and a friend of Providence have been guests of Dr. and Mrs. Francis P. Conway.

A great many people in this vicinity and from Fall River are fishing for tautog with good success.

Mrs. Mabel Benedict of New York has arrived at her cottage at Bristol Ferry, and is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gofs of Providence.

A large company of children, more than 50, are practicing for the May pole to be given under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Eldredge.

The supper of St. Paul's Guild to be held in the near future has a tempting menu, including lobster and chicken salad.

St. Anthony's church will open the season of strawberry festivals—at least, so far as Portsmouth is concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch and son of Newport and Mr. M. W. Davis of South Framingham, Mass., were guests of Mrs. L. A. Popple Sunday, and Mrs. Elbridge L. Stoddard was guest of Mrs. Wilbur C. Wheeler of Bristol Ferry.

Mrs. George R. Manchester and daughter Mary are ill with chicken pox.

Miss Almeda Winters, teacher of the public school on Prudence Island, spent Saturday in town.

A class of children from Prudence comes to the Social Studio each Saturday morning to be taught basket weaving, wood carving and others of the arts and crafts.

Miss Julia Cowing of New York, who has been guest for several weeks of Miss Cora Mitchel of Bristol Ferry, will return home this week.

Mrs. John T. Brownell, who has been ill 11 weeks, is able to sit up several hours each day. Her sister, Mrs. Deforest Macomber, is with her.

Mrs. George A. Wyatt has returned from a visit of several days in Providence, where she was guest of her brother, Mr. Parsons, and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Peckham of Providence have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Souza.

Mrs. Ella Brownell, who has been ill with measles at the home of her niece, Mrs. Alfred J. Mott, has returned home.

Miss Ruth Mott has been visiting her aunt, Miss Isabella F. Fish.

The firemen of various departments at the Rhode Island coal mine, who have held positions and kept at work since the general shutdown, are pleased at the prospect of the continuance of work, especially those of large families, to whom the expense of moving would be considerable.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Horace Pond of Southbridge, Mass., were guests Saturday of their aunt, Mrs. George S. Sherman.

Miss Amy E. Sherman is much better, although she is not yet able to use her voice.

A Lincoln Nickerson, who has been ill at Dr. Truesdale's hospital in Fall River, is greatly improved.

A SALVATION ARMY BAND.

Newport is being recognized in the Salvation Army plans as a place entitled to consideration. Another evidence of this is the contemplated visit, July 13 and 14, of Colonel Gifford, Brigadier Atkinson, Major Shepherd and the Provincial Staff Band of Boston, all of whom the public will have an opportunity to see and hear. The band was here two years ago, and competent critics rated it high. All its members have learned music since joining the Army. It is in charge of Bandmaster Malpas, who has had over 20 years' experience in directing bands of the Army in England and America. In addition to street work, the Boston band has made a noticeable record in taking the place of an organ in supporting the singing of large gatherings.

ROGERS BOYS WIN THEIR R'S.

Take Third Contest by Defeating Colt High School in Fast Game.

St. George's Meets Waterloo Before Harvard Freshmen—Trojans Add Two Victories to List.

The Rogers High School base ball team won its third contest, and incidentally the players won their "R's", by defeating Colt Memorial High School at Bristol, Saturday, by a score of 3 to 0. The game was the best, barring that with Technical, that Rogers has played this year, there being no poor plays to mar the game.

One of the features was the batting of Wilks. In four times at bat he found the ball three times—for a single, a double and a home run. The home run was the first in any of the Rogers games this year and, although there were no men on base when it came, it served to rattle the pitcher in such a way as to secure three more safe hits in the next inning, which brought in the other two runs.

Sayer did good work for Rogers in the box. He retired ten men by strikeouts, and did not let one man reach first on balls. He allowed but four hits, all of which were scattered through four innings, and he had excellent control over the ball at all times. Ingraham, the opposing pitcher, did not have many curves, but he had a speedy ball which fooled eight of the Rogers batters into striking out. He walked three men, two in the inning.

Fast ball was played on both sides, and it was not until the sixth inning that Rogers could secure its first run, which was Wilks's home-run drive. In the seventh Ingraham loosened up, but he shut down again in the last two, and Rogers was unable to score. Only one man reached third for Colt, and in five innings the side went out in straight order. Colt played an errorless game, while Rogers had a solitary one chalked down, which came from Jemail, in the first inning. The error made no material difference, as there were two out and Sayer fanned the next man up.

Baker was first to bat for Rogers, and Ingraham struck him out. Wilks secured his first hit, which was a single to centre, and he reached second on a passed ball. Martin struck out, and Jemail went out, second to first. Colt had one man reach second, but he died there. Cottrell secured a grounder from the first man up, and he put it over to Eddy for the first out. The second man flied out to Jemail. Jemail's lone error put Hughes on first and he stole second, Sayer fanned Bliven and put the side out.

Rogers went out one, two, three, in the second and Colt did the same. In the third Robson, first up, walked, and Sayer hit a long, high fly into left field, on which Robson started to run, as it looked impossible for the fielder to catch it, but he hung onto it, and as Robson had reached third he was put out, as he could not go back to second in time. Baker was next out, the first baseman taking a foul fly. In Colt's third the first man was out, Jemail to Eddy, and the second man knocked a little grounder towards third base. Jemail started after it full tilt, but went sprawling in the midst of his rush, the cause being the loosening of a spike on his shoe, which tripped him. The ball was not touched until the batter was safe on first. Jemail caught the next two men, however, by sending Garvin's grounder to Eddy and by catching a high fly from Coggeshall's bat.

In the fourth Rogers came very near scoring. Wilks made his two-bagger and Martin received a pass. Jemail struck out, and Eddy put up a foul fly which the third baseman took in. Pinto walked, and Cottrell came to bat, and with two strikes and three balls on him the umpire called the third which was even with Cottrell's ear. It spoiled the chances of a run and at the end of the inning the umpire told the Rogers players it should have been a ball, and was a case of poor judgment on his part. In Colt's fourth Hughes caught a single to left, and stole second. The next two men struck out, and while Gray was at bat Hughes attempted to steal third, but was caught, Wilks to Jemail.

It was three straight for both teams in the fifth, both pitchers getting one strike-out and the fielders doing the rest. The sixth started the runs for Rogers. Just as Wilks went to bat one of the team's loyal supporters from Newport walked on the field, and he must have been a good omen, for Wilks let go his home-run drive. The ball reached the road on the other side of the Common and Wilks went home before the ball reached third, after a series of relays. The next man up, Martin, struck out, and Jemail and Eddy both sent flies to the centre fielder. Coggeshall reached base through a short hit in the sixth, but he stayed there, as Sayer struck out the last man up.

Rogers secured its two other runs in the seventh. Pinto went out on a fly to the third baseman, and Cottrell sent a fly to the first baseman. Robson singled to left, and Sayer to right, following which he stole second. Baker scored both with his double but Wilks flied out to Morris, which ended the inning. Colt tried hard, but had no chance in the seventh. Wilks secured a foul fly from Bliven, and Eddy made a pretty catch of a low, swift drive from Morris. Gray fanned.

It was three straight for both teams in the eighth, also, Sayer securing two strike-outs and Ingraham one. In the ninth both teams tried their hardest for runs, but failed.

The work of the whole Rogers team showed an improvement over the way it worked against Cloyne, Wednesday last., All the players were surer, and seemed to be in the game for something. The Colt team defeated English High of Providence a short time ago, 10 to 9, and English defeated Rogers 18 to 4, so it may be seen that there is a good deal of improvement for Rogers since the English game.

The players fare well when they win. The defeat over Central Falls brought a treat from one of the loyal supporters of the team, and the victory Saturday brought another, from one of the "rooters" who accompanied the boys to Bristol. The score is as follows:

At the St. George's School grounds in Middletown Saturday afternoon the St. George's team met its Waterloo, being defeated by the strong Harvard Freshmen team by a score of 15 to 0. St. George's at no time had a chance to win, being totally unable to hit Frye, last year's Exeter pitcher, who was master of the situation always. He allowed only four hits, one a three-bagger by Goodspeed, and struck out 18 of the St. George's batsmen. On the other hand, the Harvard players batted heavily, making 18 safe hits, with a total of 23 bases.

Powell started in to pitch and lasted only four innings. In that time he struck out five of the Harvard batsmen, but allowed 13 hits. He did not receive the best of support from his fielders, the errors aiding materially in the Harvard run-getting. Macdermott pitched the last five innings and allowed only five hits. St. George's came near scoring in the ninth inning on hits and errors, runners being on second and third bases, but the Harvard pitcher was equal to the occasion and struck out the batsmen, preventing a score.

Mr. Wheeler of St. George's gave general satisfaction with his decisions. The St. George's School boys gave their team loyal support at all times, cheering every good play and giving the team hearty support, even when there was no hope of victory. The score was as follows:

The Trojans have added two victories to their list. Saturday, in a rather one-sided game, they defeated the team of battleship South Carolina, 5 to 0, and Sunday they won from the team of armored cruiser Washington, 6 to 0. Both games were well contested.

Saturday the weather conditions were favorable, the attendance was satisfactory, the grounds were in good shape and the white lines were in evidence to give the umpire and spectators a chance to decide about fouls. There was a big contingent of sailors from all ships on hand, but the South Carolina was particularly well represented by a good-natured set of men, who wished to see their team do something in the scoring line, but were not sore because they could not hit. In the absence of hitting they asked Ekstrom to drop one or two at first so some runners would have life, but, as they said he never drops them. Incidentally he had 17 put-outs out of 28, one being an out by hit by batted ball. The fact that but two lone hits were made by the sailors, and that the Trojans refused to make an error, tells the tale. Singleman, the first batter up, hit

GLADLY ACCEPTS THE TRUST.

Dr. McKeever Takes Up His Permanent Duties as Pastor of the Second Baptist Church.

At the morning worship of the Second Baptist Church, Sunday the acceptance of the call recently extended to Rev. Franklin G. McKeever, D. D., was made known to the church by the clerks, through a letter. The people had expressed the hope that Dr. McKeever would decide to remain with the church as its pastor, and much joy was shown because of the news contained in his message. Large congregations were present at both morning and evening worship. The letter accepting the call is as follows:

Newport, R. I., May 18, 1912.

The Second Baptist Church,
Newport, R. I.

Dear Brethren: The action of your meeting on the evening the 15th inst., extending to me a call to become your pastor, has been made known to me through your clerk, Brother A. B. Coggeshall. I need not say that I greatly appreciate the confidence thus expressed in offering to commit to me the spiritual leadership of your noble church. Two considerations make it unnecessary that any long time should be required for decision on my part—first, that we have been together for the past three months, with ample opportunity to learn the fitness and mutual adaptability of minister and people, even if previous to that time we had been total strangers; second, that on my part no conscious effort, beyond the faithful performance of duty in pulpit and home, has been made to compass this result, and on your part no attempt has been apparent to make me think better of the church than it deserves. In other words, I am compelled to believe, and I trust that you share with me this conviction, that your call to me is also a Divine call, and in this belief, and with the same frankness and heartiness which you have shown, I gladly accept the trust which you offer me, believing that He Who has led us thus far will guide us in this well-grounded hope. I am glad to say Mrs. McKeever fully shares. Grateful for your many courtesies and kindnesses to us personally, already extended, I am

Affectionately yours, for the Master's service.

Franklin G. McKeever.

Dr. McKeever takes up his pastoral relations at once, continuing his work with the church, which has been of a temporary character the past three months.

Formal recognition services will be held, at a date not yet decided upon.

A MOTHERS' DAY SERVICE.

The Sunday schools of the Union Congregational, Mt. Zion African Methodist Episcopal and Shiloh Baptist churches united Sunday afternoon at the Union Congregational, in a mothers' day service, which had been postponed from the previous Sunday on account of the special service for the Odd Fellows at the Shiloh Baptist Church. Each Sunday School contributed four numbers to the program, which included a paper on the origin of Mothers' day, by William Jennings; a paper on "Mother," by Mrs. Simmons; remarks by Rev. Henry N. Jeter, D. D., Mrs. Jeter and Mrs. Riley, and choruses by the Shiloh and Mt. Zion schools.

VAUDEVILLE AT ST. GEORGE'S.

A vaudeville entertainment was given Saturday evening in the gymnasium at St. eGorge's School by a number of the students in the third and fourth forms. The program included several farces and sketches, with and without music, in which the participants were J. B. Cummings, N. K. Hill, E. W. Bogardus, W. A. Buell, H. R. Lewis, P. W. Bogert, M. Goodspeed, S. E. Winslow, Jr., L. Alderdice, T. Crocker, W. Durea, T. E. Proctor, W. S. Williams, Jr., R. B. Jenkins, G. E. Larkin, F. Miller, G. L. Stewart, O. Kilby, F. Abeles and C. P. Kimball. The stage direction was in the hands of S. E. Winslow and the music in charge of E. S. Macdermott. The entertainment was enjoyed by the other students of the school and a number of invited guests.
